

Series of Triumphs for Sky Revolutions

Sky Revolutions - one of the UK's most authoritative voices in aerial surveying – is enjoying a month of high profile achievements and accolades.

Formed in 2015, Sky Revolutions has gone from strength to strength delivering surveying and aerial surveying services throughout the UK. The company continues to set the standard in quality service in their sector and is delighted to announce that it has achieved the much admired Organisation for Standardisation (ISO) 9001 quality mark.

Leading the Industry

ISO 9001 is the most recognised and respected international benchmark for quality. Achieving this standard represents a clear commitment to meeting the demanding criteria set out by the ISO and reflects Sky Revolution's desire to promote professional baselines for the growing UAV (unmanned aerial vehicle) industry.

Managing Director Ben Gorham said: "We're delighted to have achieved this quality accreditation. It will help us to become even more efficient in our management processes, in our focus on customers, and in our drive for continual improvement. We're committed to offering services at the highest possible quality level and meeting the expectations of our customers throughout the UK and Europe. ISO 9001 is a reflection of that undertaking and marks us out as a dedicated business in our sector."

New Business of the Year

Continuing their month of progress and success, Sky Revolutions has also scooped the Fenland Enterprise New Business of the Year Award 2016 and has been recognised as a finalist in the Small Business category.

The Enterprise Business Awards, now in their twelfth year, are the benchmark for business excellence in the Fenland region and recognise local entrepreneurs, businesses and individuals making a difference in their industries. The New Business of the Year Award champions new businesses set up after January 1st 2015 and scrutinises the strength of their business models and performance against start-up plans.

Ben Gorham again: “To win this category, we needed to demonstrate our resilience and show how we’d shaped and modified our plans according to the economic environment. It is an honour to be recognised for the strength of our planning and the on-going success of our business. Endorsements like this are incredibly important to us and really do reflect the hard work and effort we put into becoming a successful and important business in our sector – we are thrilled to be recognised.”

...ENDS...

Notes for Editors

Sky Revolutions

Sky Revolutions is a leading surveying company offering high quality aerial photography and filming across the UK Construction, Telecoms, Facilities Management and Renewables industries.

The company was set up by Ben Gorham to bring significant knowledge from the construction sector to aerial surveying. A specialist in building, planning and site assessments, Ben uses his understanding of construction and maintenance to deliver valuable and contextual insight via some of the world’s most sophisticated Unmanned Aircraft Systems (UAS).

This combination of construction expertise and advanced Drone or UAS proficiency has seen the company attract the attention of some of Europe’s largest maintenance, utilities and facilities management experts. It now employs a team of highly trained specialist pilots and support staff to deliver a new cost-effective, safer and accessible means of surveying at height.

Links

Sky Revolutions online.

ISO 9001 Certification validity check. Certificate number: 14133152

ISO 9001 Principles.

The Fenland Enterprise Business Awards online.

List of accreditations and qualifications.

Image Options (attached separately)

More/...

Sky Revolutions 3/...

Contacts

For direct comment and interview, please contact Ben Gorham on 01778 560929 or email b.gorham@skyrevolutions.co.uk

For general queries, further content and images, please contact Kate Treen on email k.treen@skyrevolutions.co.uk